BRING YOUR CHILD TO WORK DAY A HUGE SUCCESS

Pittsburgh (April 21, 2010) — The staff at Quick Med Claims (QMC), a nationally recognized medical transportation billing & reimbursement provider based in Pleasant Hills, took advantage of Bring Your Child to Work Day to educate young family members about the importance of emergency medical services (EMS). The staff hosted a special day for sons, daughters, nieces, nephews and grandchildren to learn about the work performed by QMC staff and why it is important for the communities that they serve.

The QMC Team provides billing & reimbursement services for ground and air ambulance providers from Seattle, WA to Orlando, FL. The company has been located in the South Hills for nearly twenty (20) years and employs more than seventy five (75) local people. “We take our work very seriously”, says Michael Lewis, co-founder and the President of Quick Med Claims. “We recognize that if we don’t perform well our Clients may not have the resources to train their personnel and secure lifesaving equipment”.

There were forty two (42) young people, ranging from age 5 to 15, who spent the day at QMC. They learned about the professional services provided by their family members. They heard about what it takes to become a Paramedic from Susan Schwartz, who works at QMC and is also a local EMS Provider. The team from Baldwin EMS was on hand to teach the group about how emergency medical services systems work and to explain the use for each important piece of equipment on the ambulance. The young people participated in activities to help them learn about emergencies and what to do when an accident occurs.

“I have lived in the community my whole life” said Harry Sichi, co-founder and CEO of QMC, “and I know we are fortunate to have the trained professionals from local EMS agencies to assist us.” The staff at QMC works closely with the EMS providers that it supports AND helps the patients they serve when it comes to sorting through the complexities of health care billing & reimbursement.

“This was a special day for our entire staff”, says Terri Capristo, Director of Human Resources and organizer of the event. The day culminated with a special visit by the Pleasant Hills Police Department and K-9 Unit Officer Scrapie.
